FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Friday, 8th April, 2010

DozeniPad.com is the first site that ranks applications, blogs, games, accessories, and more, using an advanced algorithm, so users can quickly locate the iPad site for which they are searching.

DozeniPad.com - the new online iPad index that offers unbiased commentary and criticism of emerging iPad websites.

Apple® has announced that it sold over 300,000 iPads in the US as of midnight Saturday, April 3. Additionally, iPad users downloaded over one million apps from Apple's App Store and over 250,000 ebooks from its iBookstore during the first day. The impact of the iPad on the internet can already be seen with the emergence of sites dealing with all things iPad.

The question now becomes, how does the end-user sift through the sites in order to find the best out there? DozeniPad.com, the first dedicated online iPad reviews index, will be the hub for all the best iPad sites. From apps to accessories, video to games, blogs to dev sites, DozeniPad will cover the online iPad universe.

DozeniPad.com works well for both the readers and the sites themselves. Since the internet is full of sites related to almost anything imaginable, it's sometimes difficult for the reader to expeditiously find and accomplish what they have set out to do, based on the multitude of official and non-official sites that exist. DozeniPad.com has devised a complex site ranking system and combined it with editorial reviews to give a comprehensive overview of the most popular iPad sites available.

Sites that are reviewed have just as much incentive to read DozeniPad.com. If it gets a good review and ranking, it can see what it's doing right, and why the public likes what it has done. On the flip side, a site that has gotten a poor review and ranking can see what it has done wrong and improve on that with the hopes of getting good attention.

DozeniPad.com is the latest website from Dozen Media Corporation, the makers of top-ranked Google online indexes such as DozenVideo.com and DozenSports.com.

"We are excited with the release of DozeniPad.com.
